

ANNOUNCEMENT FOR ICW AGM

FROM DULAN PERARA

GROWTH MANAGER – CONSUMER & ENTERPRISE, MEVO

We had hoped to join the meeting today to say how delighted we are to be a supporter of ICW.

We are looking forward to be working together more closely this year to explore what we could do for our inner-city residents.

We believe our car share service model in the inner-city is a key ingredient in offering flexible transport alternatives for residents that can support the move away from private car ownership.

We actively support emissions reductions through a number of ways.

These are:

- We are climate positive and offset 120% of all emissions
- We provide users access to EV's
- It has been found that one shared car can take 11 private cars of the road

We are also collaborating with ICW to think about inner-city emergency planning - perhaps seeing how our fleet of cars and chargers could play a part in providing emergency power solutions for residents

We are open to working with apartment buildings and developers to provide car-sharing to homes that have publicly accessible parking and have in the past worked to bring in charging into these parking spaces as well.

This further supports the shift away from private car ownership for not just the apartment building/property but the community around the building/property.

AND ... we're very happy to share something special with ICW's financial members today - we are offering your members $50 Mevo credits when you enter ICW50 into the Mevo app.

We also have some other ideas to help build awareness of ICW and the work it does to support inner-city residents

So, we are really sorry not to be able to attend the AGM today ...and we look forward to working with ICW in the coming year!
